Step 4: WVPGA Training Policy

Hazardous Material emergency response work is very dangerous, and emergency responders have sustained serious injury, illness and some have died in the line of duty while attempting to mitigate emergencies. There is no possible way that the educational program text and forum can cover the full spectrum of possible scenarios, problems and contingencies associated with every type of propane emergencies.

All participants are warned to exercise all necessary cautions when handling propane emergencies. Always place personal safety first when handling propane emergencies.

The intent of this educational program is to provide a part of the necessary formal training needed when addressing propane emergencies. The training is based on commonly used practices, referenced laws, regulations, and industry standards, it is not meant to set a standard of operations for any emergency response organization. It is the responsibility of each attendee to remain current with industry procedures, regulations and product developments which may improve personal health and safety.

If applicant's application is approved, the West Virginia Propane Gas Association will reimburse the cost for an appropriate instructor with equipment to conduct the class at no cost to applicant. WVPGA will provide each attendee a copy of the most current edition of Propane Emergencies workbook at no cost. The West Virginia Propane Gas Association assumes no liability for reliance on the contents of this program. The program is offered as a guide only to assist expert and / or experienced instructors and managers in the training of their personnel.

Please note, WVPGA reserves the right to select host sites. Completion of this application does not necessarily mean that applicant will be approved for training.

Step 5: Signatures & Approval

I have read, understand and will abide by the above policy. I hold the West Virginia Propane Gas Association and the West Virginia Propane Research & Education Foundation harmless of any actions, accidents or potential property damage that may occur during this training event. Though WVPGA and West Virginia Propane Research & Education Foundation are sponsoring this training event, they, in no way, are assuming any liability for the event.
